

Luke Stapleton graduated from Tascosa High School in 1999. He began his education in Amarillo at the age of 2 at which time he started attending REPD classes at the Amarillo Speech, Hearing and Language Center. He continued in the program at Lamar Elementary before attending Sam Houston Middle School. After graduation he went to Texas Tech and earned his Bachelor's in Business Administration, as well as a Paramedic certification. After a brief time in Colorado he moved to Oklahoma City to work as a Paramedic. He worked there for about 8 years and decided to go to Oklahoma City University and earned his Law degree in 2012. He is currently practicing law in the Oklahoma City area. He does civil litigation, with a heavy focus on family law.

Throughout his career he has volunteered in the communities that he has lived. Currently he sits on the board of directors for the Oklahoma Youth Hunting Program and volunteers for the Thunderbird Youth Academy.
